Religion, State & Society is the only English-language academic publication devoted to issues of church, state and society in the former communist countries. The journal reflects the conviction that the experiences of religious communities in their encounter with communism will be central to the evolution of the new Europe and of the western world in general in the next century. Tackling social, cultural, ethnic, political and ecclesiological problems is in future going to be a cooperative effort, in a way hitherto impossible, involving the religious communities of both East and West. Religious communities in Western Europe, the USA, Australasia and Latin America will have much to learn from the way in which their counterparts in the East have tackled such problems in the past, and vice versa. RSS will continue to monitor the experiences of religious communities in communist and formerly communist countries throughout the world. It will also serve as a forum for debate on issues of global concern, with input from both East and West.

Contributions are welcome addressing any issue covered by the title of the journal and placing the discussion in the context of the East-West encounter in its traditional or contemporary form. Articles of up to 7000 words are invited. Longer contributions will also be considered. Please send manuscripts to the Editor: Dr Philip Walters, Religion, State & Society, Keston Institute, 4 Park Town, Oxford OX2 6SH, UK.

Business correspondence, including orders and remittances for subscriptions, advertisements, back numbers and offprints, should be addressed to the publisher: Carfax Publishing Ltd, PO Box 25, Abingdon, Oxfordshire OX14 3UE.

The Journal is published four times a year. These four issues constitute one volume. An annual index and title page is bound in the year's final issue.
